

Springdell was formed in 1904 after several years in which the land was used only as a campground and recreational area. A group of men obtained a 99 year lease from the government allowing them to settle the meadow area permanently. There were 13 families originally involved. These men formed a corporation and would own and operate the land as joint-stockholders. At the end of the 99 year period the land would then convert into the private ownership of all property owners.

Some of the stockholders built homes or cabins immediately, while others waited and built later. Over the years, the cabins got larger and better, and because it's so close to the valley, some are now full sized homes and are lived in year-round. Originally, the place was called Springdell Resort Co., but today the company name is Springdell Inc.
